Friends of the Mutt.

Mingle, Sniff, Mingle!

In my walks around town with my dog, polite conversation with other dog owners always seems to include some sort of grudging comment about the day's weather. But to winemakers and farmers of all kinds, the weather is so much more than an inconvenience to one's personal thermostat. It can be the difference between boom and bust. It can trigger hopes and fears of the most irrational kind. And although technological advancements can give us precise measurements and predictions that should allow us to feel in much greater control, in many ways it feels like we're not much farther along than the days of putting your faith in dowrsers and the use of divining rods. And so we wait (not so patiently) to see how things well beyond our reach will unfold.

We are delighted to report that in 2017 things have unfolded rather nicely. Early in the year there was record rainfall. This was followed by a mild spring and now a summer of extremely high temperatures. It's a pattern predicted to yield us excellent quality and tonnage in Sonoma County. In the vineyards you can almost hear a collective sigh.

Whatever deals made with the wine gods have been honored. And just for a moment, for one exhale of a breath, we can put aside our concerns for next year. There is joy in what had previously been droughtville and we are so very thankful--may it last and last.

We'll still keep those divining rods handy. You never know. You just never know.

USING THE SECRETIVE ADDITIVE OF LOVE...

Wagster is a unique organization that demonstrates their love for dogs by baking dog treats made with real ingredients for healthy, happy dogs. But that's not the end of their story. In addition to ensuring the elimination of chemicals, preservatives and other funny-sounding stuff from their baked goods, they have a passion for community involvement as well.

The Wagster kitchen is part of an award-winning non-profit called Homeward Bound of Marin, which helps homeless and low-income people gain employment skills for a more stable and happy future.

The Wagster folks never use more than six simple ingredients in their baking. In the case of the Apple & Toasted Almond Treat included with your club selections the ingredients are: oats, oat flour, flax meal, molasses and apple.

But as the Wagster folks say "while we use six simple ingredients, the secretive additive is love--for real food, for dogs and for the opportunity to make a better future."
